James,

My client is still working on the access agreement and I plan to follow up with them later today. In the interim, it is ok to continue monitoring the storm drains on the property until the access agreement is in place. It is also ok to go ahead and stick the frac tank to get the volume readings. Please share the information with us when you get it.

Thanks,

Jill

Jim,

I made minor changes to the IAP:

- Corrected 'jamb' to 'jam'
- Inserted a few lines for ERM activities in Section 6, Division A
- Entered today's date by my signature line.

Thanks.

See the attached DRAFT IAP.

I did ask ER to do something different than we had talked about yesterday. I asked them to report their progress in a separate document. Otherwise, you can end up bogging down writing/adoption of the next IAP because you're waiting for progress numbers that are still coming in.

Please review and get back before tomorrow. If it's easier for you, I've decided it should be okay to approve the plan without a written signature. Just let me know by email that you approve the draft and I will finalize it/print it to .pdf and distribute to all.

I haven't received anything yet for tomorrow's IAP. Did you get something drafted yet? As we talked about, I'm looking for:

-By Division:

- +what you're plans are for the next Operational Period (tomorrow)
- +other possible activities needed in that division (ex: removed oiled vegetation)

-Weather for next period, and effects on response

-Any other issues that are affecting your ability to do the response.

Separate from the IAP elements, I need a few brief lines on what you've been doing yesterday/today. I think this is what you've been doing, feel free to add/remove and provide numbers where I don't have them:

- Placement of additional containment boom
- Maintenance of existing boom, including switching out spent sorbents
- Brought in rolloff dumpster for solid waste disposal
- Brought in X number of frac tanks for oil, oily water waste liquid disposal

- deployed sorbent sweep for heavy sheen
- Continued to operate 2 vacuum trucks....
- X number of workers
- Revised liquids waste recovery numbers to X total gallons of liquid with: X gallons of oil and X gallons of oily water
